ASM Connects.

We are an internationally-recognized professional society for materials science engineers, and provide technical knowledge, education, social interaction, career advancement opportunities, networking, teambuilding and professional development through our network of 100+ professional ASM Chapters. These "local chapters" are connections to the materials science engineers, researchers, buyers, and decision makers worldwide.

Discover the Possibilities.

Your ASM Individual Membership provides:

- Access to thousands of technical articles 24/7
- The award-winning Advanced Materials & Processes® magazine
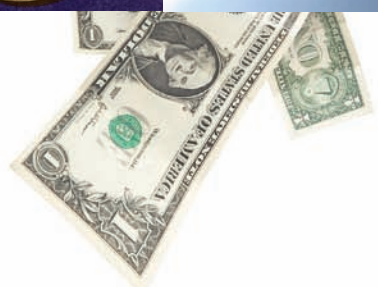
- Free access to online journals
- Professional resources and opportunities via the ASM Member Career Center
- Free technical article downloads through your ASM Points
- Connection to Online Forums
- Contact information in the ASM Member Directory
- Significant discounts on products including books, conferences, training seminars and online database subscriptions
- Special offers, such as low credit card rates, discounts on rental cars, competitive rates on comprehensive health insurance policies, and savings on home and auto insurance.

Because you have pride.

Just a Few Dollars More.

A modest investment realizes a wealth of opportunity.

An ASM Sustaining Membership provides all the value of an individual membership plus…



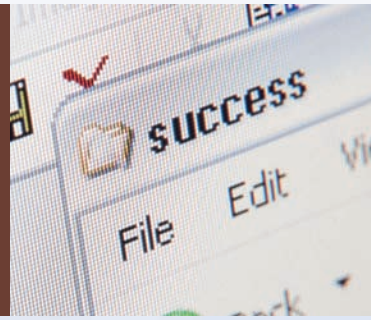
Visibility.

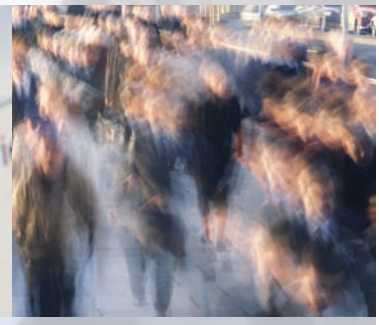
Your company name featured on letterhead, newsletters, websites, directories and meeting announcements. Plus, once a year, at a special Chapter meeting, Sustaining Members are honored for their supporting role and contribution.

Opportunity.

Enjoy priority registration and more then just one member of your organization can experience ASM membership. If your representative cannot make an event, then send another associate at the member rate.

Because you have ambition.





Networking.

You and your staff have the opportunity to meet and interact with industry experts, peers, suppliers, customers and prospects to share information, discuss challenges, solve technical problems, and form beneficial professional relationships and lasting friendships.

Advertising.

Receive discounted rates on advertising in Chapter's newsletters, websites and directories. Often, Chapter Sustaining Member's ads are free.

Sponsorship.

Get the first opportunities to sponsor and receive discounts on special educational programs, professional and social events, including golf outings.

Because you have goals.

Organizational Development.

Be part of a team. Through participation as Chapter officers and service on the board, your staff will learn organizational skills, how to lead and delegate, how to manage a budget and how to become better public speakers.

Outreach.

Mentor future industry professionals and identify potential employees. Encourage the next generation of materials specialists through Chapter programs for high school and college students. Many Chapters offer scholarships, sponsorship of annual Student Nights, organized high school visits, and serve as advisors for local colleges and universities.

The Power of Influence.

Take an active role in guiding the direction of local Chapters from technical programming to education, to student outreach and social events. Volunteerism and support of local Chapters leads to increased visibility and activity at the national and international level.
